The failure of prosecutors to reveal exculpatory evidence to defendants and their attorneys has resulted in many unjust convictions. A small number of these cases are eventually reversed on appeal but such an outcome is dependent on the defense discovering the existence of the suppressed evidence and the willingness of courts to reverse convictions and reopen trials. Knowledge of and sensitivity to this issue by judges, prosecutors and defense lawyers is essential to the fair and just operation of our criminal justice system.

Review of Law

The seminal case concerning exculpatory evidence is Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83, 83 S.Ct. 1194, 10 L.Ed.2d 215 (1963). Brady was charged with murder and tried separately from his codefendant. At Brady’s trial, he admitted participation in the crime but contended that his codefendant had done the actual killing. Prior to trial, Brady’s counsel requested access to the statements made by the codefendant. He was shown some statements but the prosecution withheld a statement where the codefendant admitted the killing. After Brady’s direct appeal, he gained
In Ramirez v. State, 2002 WL 1723751 (Tex. App. - Austin), the Court reversed a case based on the prosecution's failure to correct false testimony from a State's witness that she was not looking for money based on being a victim of the crime alleged even though she had hired a lawyer to pursue a lawsuit. In Brady, the Supreme Court stated the following:

“We now hold that the suppression by the prosecution of evidence favorable to an accused upon request violates due process where the evidence is material either to guilt or to punishment, irrespective of the good faith or bad faith of the prosecution.”

In United States v. Agurs, 427 U.S. 97, 96 S.Ct. 2392, 49 L.Ed.2d 342 (1976), the Court further explored the question of suppression of exculpatory evidence and stated that “when the prosecutor receives a specific and relevant request (for exculpatory evidence) the failure to make any response is seldom, if ever, excusable.” The Agurs court also noted that, “if the evidence is so clearly supportive of a claim of innocence that it gives the prosecution notice of a duty to produce, that duty should equally arise even if no request is made.” Specifically, the Court in Agurs distinguished three situations in which a Brady claim might arise: first, where previously undisclosed evidence revealed that the prosecution introduced trial testimony that it knew or should have known was perjured, 427 U.S. at 103-104, 96 S.Ct. at 2397-2398. In this situation, the Court said that “a conviction obtained by the knowing use of perjured testimony is fundamentally unfair and must be set aside if there is any reasonable likelihood that the false testimony could have affected the judgment of the jury.”

1In Ramirez v. State, 2002 WL 1723751 (Tex. App. - Austin), the Court reversed a case based on the prosecution’s failure to correct false testimony from a State’s witness that she was not looking for money based on being a victim of the crime alleged even though she had hired a lawyer to pursue a lawsuit. The Court in Ramirez summarized the law as follows:
In Giglio v. United States, 405 U.S. 150, 153, 92 S.Ct. 763, 31 L.Ed.2d 104 (1972), the Court acknowledged that since Mooney, it has been clear that deliberate deception of a court and jurors by the presentation of known false evidence is incompatible with "the rudimentary demands of justice." See Pyle v. Kansas, 317 U.S. 213, 216, 63 S.Ct. 177, 87 L.Ed. 214 (1942). And in Napue v. Illinois, 360 U.S. 264, 79 S.Ct. 1173, 3 L.Ed.2d 1217 (1959), the Court concluded that the same result obtains when the prosecution, "although not soliciting false evidence, allows it to go uncorrected when it appears." Id. at 269, 79 S.Ct. 763. When the reliability of a given witness may well be determinative of the guilt or innocence of an accused, nondisclosure of evidence affecting credibility falls within the general rule discussed. Giglio, 405 U.S. at 154, 92 S.Ct. 763. This line of cases has sometimes been referred to as the Mooney-Pyle-Napue line of decisions. See George E. Dix & Robert O. Dawson, Texas Practice: Criminal Practice and Procedure §22.51 (2d ed.2002) (hereinafter Dix); see generally Giles v. Maryland, 386 U.S. 66, 87 S.Ct. 793, 17 L.Ed.2d 737 (1967); Miller v. Pate, 386 U.S. 1, 87 S.Ct. 785, 17 L.Ed.2d 690 (1967); Alcorta v. Texas, 355 U.S. 28, 78 S.Ct. 103, 2 L.Ed.2d 9 (1957); Ex parte Castellano, 863 S.W.2d 476 (Tex. Crim. App. 1993); Ex parte Adams, 768 S.W.2d 281 (Tex. Crim. App. 1989); Davis v. State, 831 S.W.2d 426 (Tex. App. - Austin 1992, no pet.).

Although Brady relied upon Mooney, see Kyles v. Whitley, 514 U.S. 419, 432, 115 S.Ct. 1555, 131 L.Ed.2d 490 (1995), and there have been suggestions that the Mooney line of cases were incorporated in the later Brady rule, the two lines of decision are distinctive. See United States v. Agurs, 427 U.S. 97, 104, 96 S.Ct. 2392, 49 L.Ed.2d 342 (1976). It has been stated: Although Brady v. Maryland and its progeny suggest the due process to disclose may have superseded and replaced the prohibition against the use of perjured testimony, this is not the case. The prohibition against the use of perjured testimony remains available to defendants as an alternative to Brady arguments. Mooney contentions are sometimes more attractive to defendants because the criterion for determining the materiality of improperly used perjured testimony is more lenient than that for determining the materiality of improperly suppressed exculpatory evidence under Brady. The difference between the two due process rules is not entirely clear. Some situations will present viable arguments that both were violated. If a defendant is able to establish both that the State knowingly used perjured testimony and that it failed to disclose evidence showing the falsity of the testimony, the defendant is entitled to relief if he or she can show the testimony used is material under the perjured testimony line of decisions and its more relaxed materiality standard. Dix §22.5 (citations omitted).

While appellant relies upon both due process rules, we conclude it is necessary to examine only the Mooney-Pyle-Napue line of decisions to reach the proper disposition of appellant’s contention. We review the record to determine if the State 'used' the testimony, whether the testimony was 'false,' whether the testimony was 564 F.2d 176, 178 (5th Cir. 1977) ("due process is violated when the prosecutor although not soliciting false evidence from a government witness, allows it to stand uncorrected when it appears"); second, where the Government failed to accede to a defense request for disclosure of some specific kind of exculpatory evidence, id. at 104-107, 96 S.Ct. at 2398-2399; and third, where the Government failed to volunteer exculpatory evidence never requested, or requested only in a general way. The Court found a duty on the part of the Government even in this last situation, though only when suppression of the evidence would be "of sufficient significance to result in the denial of the defendant’s right to a fair trial." Id. at 108, 96 S.Ct. at 2400.

United States v. Bagley, 473 U.S. 667, 105 S.Ct. 3375, 87 L.Ed.2d 481 (1985), clarified the standard of review when exculpatory evidence is suppressed. First, the Bagley court rejected a distinction between cases when there was a specific request for exculpatory evidence and no request. Bagley set out a three part test for obtaining relief based on suppression of exculpatory evidence. (1) The prosecution withheld or suppressed evidence. (2) The evidence was favorable to the defense. (3) The evidence was material to either guilt or punishment. See also, Ex parte Kimes, 872 S.W.2d 700, 702-03 (Tex. Crim. App. 1993). Under Bagley the materiality test is met and a new trial required if there is a reasonable probability that, had the evidence been disclosed to the defense, the result of the proceeding would have been different. This reasonable probability is defined as “a \[\text{knowingly used,} \] and if these questions are affirmatively answered, whether there is a reasonable likelihood that the false testimony could have affected the judgment of the jury.”

probability sufficient to undermine confidence in the outcome”. 473 U.S. at 682, 105 S.Ct. at 3383; see also, Ex parte Adams, 768 S.W.2d 281 (Tex. Crim. App. 1989) (Texas has adopted the Bagley test for materiality determinations when exculpatory evidence is suppressed). The Bagley court also held that the prosecution has a duty to disclose evidence that could be used to impeach the prosecution’s witnesses. In Bagley, the prosecution had not disclosed incentives which had been offered witnesses contingent on the government’s satisfaction with their testimony.

In Bagley, the Court expressed concern with “any adverse effect that the prosecutor’s failure to respond (with exculpatory evidence) might have had on the preparation of the defendant’s case.” 473 U.S. at 683, 105 S.Ct. at 3384. See also, Derden v. McNeel, 938 F.2d 605, 617 (5th Cir. 1991) (a reviewing court may consider any adverse effects the prosecutor’s failure to release information might have had on the defendant’s preparation and presentation of the case).

In Kyles v. Whitley, 514 U.S. 419, 115 S.Ct. 1555, 131 L.Ed.2d 490 (1995), the Court discussed the showing necessary to obtain a new trial when the prosecution withholds exculpatory evidence. Under Kyles, this showing does not require a demonstration that the disclosure of this evidence would have resulted in an acquittal. Rather, as the Court stated, the question is “not whether the defendant would more likely than not have received a different verdict with the evidence, but whether in its absence, he received a fair trial, understood as a trial resulting in a verdict worthy of confidence.” 514 U.S. at 434, 115 S.Ct. at 1566. The Kyles court restated the materiality test as a determination as to whether there is a “reasonable probability” that, had the evidence been disclosed to the defense, the result of the proceeding would have been different.” The Court emphasized that this was not a sufficiency of the evidence test and did not require a showing that disclosure of the suppressed evidence would have resulted in the defendant’s acquittal.

The Court in Kyles found reversible error in the prosecutions suppression of the following evidence in a Louisiana murder case: 1) contemporaneous eyewitness statement taken by the police following the murder that were favorable to Kyles; 2) various inconsistent statements by a police informant who had implicated Kyles and 3) a computer printout of license numbers of car parked at the crime scene on the night of the murder, which did not list Kyles’ car.

Knowledge of government agents, such as police officers, of exculpatory evidence is imputed to the prosecution. Williams v. Whitley, 940 F.2d 132 (5th Cir. 1991); U. S. v. Auten, 632 F.2d 478 (5th Cir. 1980). Therefore, if a police officer has exculpatory evidence, this is the same as a prosecutor having it, and it must be turned over to the defense. See Kyles, 115 S.Ct. at 1566, (“the individual prosecutor has a duty to learn of any favorable evidence known to the others acting on the government’s behalf in the case, including the police.”); United States v. Brooks, 966 F.2d 1500 (D.C. Cir. 1992) (discussing duty of prosecutor to search files of other agencies); O’Rarden v. State, 777 S.W.2d 455 (Tex. App. - Dallas 1989, pet. ref’d) (prosecution team includes investigators); Carey v. Duckworth, 738 F.2d 875 (7th Cir. 1984) (prosecution cannot evade Brady requirements by keeping itself ignorant of information). See also, Jones v. Chicago, 856 F.2d 985 (7th Cir. 1988) (criticizing police for withholding information from prosecutor in order to circumvent Brady rule).
In United States v. Henthorn, 931 F.2d 29 (9th Cir. 1991), the court held that when the government is confronted with a request by a defendant for the personnel files of testifying officers the government has a duty to examine those files and must disclose information favorable to the defense that meets the materiality standard. The court held that if the government is uncertain about its materiality the evidence should be submitted to the court.

Additionally, the duty to disclose exculpatory evidence is ongoing and the State must disclose it whenever it is discovered. Flores v. State, 940 S.W.2d 189, 191 (Tex. App. - San Antonio, 1996, no pet.).

In Strickler v. Greene, 527 U.S. 263 119 S.Ct. 1936, 144 L.Ed.2d 286 (1999), the Supreme Court reiterated the standard of review for determining Brady claims. However, Strickler demonstrated the heavy burden the Courts place on defendants to demonstrate prejudice when the prosecution withholds exculpatory evidence. In Strickler, the court found that the prosecution withheld exculpatory evidence but concluded that the defendant did not show prejudice because there was strong evidence in the record that the defendant in that capital murder case would have been convicted and sentenced to death even if the prosecution had revealed the suppressed exculpatory evidence. Specifically in Strickler the prosecutor failed to disclose exculpatory materials in the police files, consisting of notes taken by a detective during interviews with an eyewitness and letters written to the detective by the eyewitness, that cast serious doubt on significant portions of her testimony. However, there was additional strong physical evidence and witness testimony that the court found to provide sufficient support for the conclusion that the defendant would have been convicted and sentenced to death even if the witness had been severely impeached or her testimony excluded entirely.

Texas courts have reversed a few cases based on the suppression of exculpatory evidence by the prosecution. The Texas courts essentially follow the same reasoning as the Supreme Court in analyzing these cases.

In Thomas v. State, 841 S.W.2d 399 (Tex. Crim. App. 1992), the defense filed a motion requesting exculpatory evidence. The prosecutor responded in the usual way and said the state had no exculpatory evidence. At the trial, the State’s witnesses testified that they saw the defendant drag the deceased behind an apartment building and shoot him. The State suppressed the following exculpatory evidence: A different witness named Walker was interviewed by the police several days after the shooting and the prosecutor personally interviewed Walker about one month after the shooting. The prosecutor and the prosecutor’s investigator also interviewed Walker in the courtroom the first day of trial. After that interview, Walker disappeared and was not available to testify at trial. In all of his interviews, Walker told the State officials that he arrived at the apartment and went upstairs to watch a movie. When he arrived, he saw the defendant in front of the apartments. While Walker was upstairs, he heard arguing and gunshots in the back of the apartments. He ran downstairs and saw the defendant in the front of the apartments. He said that the defendant could not have gotten from the back of the apartments when the shooting occurred to the front that fast because Walker ran down the stairs in a few seconds, and therefore the defendant did not do the shooting.

After trial, the defense learned of this evidence and Walker’s testimony was presented at a motion for new trial. Both the trial court and Court of Appeals refused to order a new trial. However, the Court of Criminal Appeals reversed and held that there was a reasonable probability that the result of the proceeding would have been different with Walker’s testimony.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals recently reversed a capital murder conviction based on the suppression of exculpatory evidence. In Ex parte Richardson, 70 S.W.3d 865 (Tex. Crim. App. 2002), the prosecution failed to disclose the existence of a diary kept by a police officer with the Lubbock Police Department that contained substantial information that could have been used to impeach the State’s star witness. This diary was written while the officer was guarding the witness during a period of protective custody. The officer who maintained the diary testified at the post-conviction writ hearing that she kept the diary to protect herself and other officers from false accusations by the witness. The diary contained information about false accusations and statements made by the witness about the officers. At the writ hearing, the officer who wrote the diary as well as five other officers testified the witness was not a truthful person. None of this information had been revealed to the defense. Based on this evidence, the Court of Criminal Appeals found that the three part test for obtaining relief under Brady was met. The Court specifically found that the State failed to disclose the existence of this exculpatory evidence, that the withheld evidence was favorable to the accused and that the evidence was material, that is, that there is a reasonable probability that had the evidence been disclosed, the outcome of the trial would have been different.

Recently, the Supreme Court issued an opinion that is a setback for attempts to encourage prosecutors to be open about exculpatory evidence. In United States v. Ruiz, 122 S.Ct. 2450 (2002), the Supreme Court recently held that the Constitution does not require the government to disclose material impeachment evidence prior to entering into a plea agreement.

The Court of Criminal Appeals has also held that the Brady rule did not apply when the accused was already aware of the information. Hayes v. State, 85 S.W.3d 809 (Tex. Crim. App. 2002); Harvard v. State, 800 S.W.2d 195, 204 (Tex. Crim. App. 1989).

If the defendant discovers previously withheld evidence during trial, or close to trial, it is necessary to request a continuance in order to preserve error for appeal. Lindley v. State, 635 S.W.2d 541, 544 (Tex. Crim. App. 1982); Williams v. State, 995 S.W.2d 754, 762 (Tex. App. - San Antonio 1999, no pet.); Gutierrez v. State, 85 S.W.2d 446 (Tex. App. - Austin 2002).

SPECIFIC CASES

Reversals of convictions for suppression of exculpatory evidence arise in a variety of circumstances. A sampling of such cases follows:

Supreme Court Cases

* Banks v. Dretke*, 540 U.S. 668, 124 S.Ct. 1256, 157 L.Ed.2d 1166 (2004). Fact that State’s witness was a paid government informant was exculpatory because it could have been used to impeach his testimony.

_Youngblood v. West Virginia_, 126 S.Ct. 2188, 165 L.Ed.2d 269 (2006). State trooper suppressed note indicating sexual encounters with victim were consensual.

_Kyles v. Whitley, supra:_ State suppressed the following evidence in murder case: contemporaneous eyewitness statements taken by the police which would have undermined the state’s eyewitness testimony, various inconsistent statements made to the police by an informant and a list of cars at the crime scene.

_Miller v. Pate_, 386 U.S. 1, 87 S.Ct. 785, 17 L.Ed.2d 690 (1967): Habeas granted where prosecution knowingly misrepresented paint-stained shorts as blood-stained, and failed to disclose the true nature of the stains.

_Napue v. Illinois_, 360 U.S. 264, 79 S.Ct. 1173, 3 L.Ed.2d 1217 (1959): “When reliability of a given witness may well be determinative of guilt or innocence,” nondisclosure of immunity deal with witness violates Due Process.

_Texas Cases_

_Ball v. State_, 631 S.W.2d 809 (Tex. App. - Eastland 1982, pet ref’d): Error not to disclose picture of defendant with black eye at time of arrest when self defense claimed.

_Collins v. State_, 642 S.W.2d 80 (Tex. App. - Fort Worth 1982): State did not tell defense material witnesses name or location.

_Cook v. State_, 940 S.W.2d 623 (Tex. Crim. App. 1996): Withheld evidence that the defendant knew victim and had been to her apartment and failed to disclose material inconsistent statements of a key witness to the Grand Jury.

_Ex parte Lewis_, 587 S.W.2d 697 (Tex. Crim. App. 1979): Existence of doctors letter stating defendant was insane.

_Flores v. State_, 940 S.W.2d 189, 191 (Tex. App. - San Antonio 1996, no pet.): Witness statement that was material in corroborating defendant’s argument that victim shot herself.

1984), cert. denied, 472 U.S. 1012 (1985): Failure to disclose existence of a deal that changed witness’s sentence from death to lie.

Jones v. State, 850 S.W.2d 223 (Tex. App. - Fort Worth 1993): Prosecution failed to disclose in a timely manner exculpatory information in a victim impact statement which negated the evidence of defendant’s intent to shoot the victim.

O’Rarden v. State, 777 S.W.2d 455 (Tex. App. - Dallas 1989, pet. ref’d): Failure to provide defense copy of Dept. of Human Resources report which indicated no sexual abuse occurred.

Thomas v. State, 841 S.W.2d 399 (Tex. Crim. App. 1992): Witness statement to police that defendant was not in a physical position to have been able to commit the offense.

Federal Cases

Ballinger v. Kirby, 3 F.3d 1371 (10th Cir. 1993): Exculpatory photograph.

Banks v. Reynolds, 54 F.3d 1508 (10th Cir. 1995): Fact that another person had been arrested for the same crime.

Bowen v. Maynard, 799 F.2d 593 (8th Cir. 1986): Evidence that former police officer was initial suspect in the murder for which defendant was convicted.
Brown v. Borg, 951 F.2d 1011 (9th Cir. 1991): Knowledge by prosecutor that her theory of the case was wrong.

Carter v. Rafferty, 826 F.2d 1299 (3rd Cir. 1987): Reports of polygraph test given to important prosecution witness, but see Wood v. Bartholomew, 516 U.S. 1, 116 S.Ct. 7, 133 L.Ed.2d 1 (1995) (because polygraphs are inadmissible even for impeachment they are not subject to Brady).

Chaney v. Brown, 730 F.2d 1334 (10th Cir. 1984): Conviction affirmed but death sentence reversed where withheld evidence contradicted prosecution’s theory of the murder and placed defendant 110 miles from the scene.

Derden v. McNeel, 932 F.2d 605 (5th Cir. 1991): Radio log that would have impeached State’s witnesses.

DuBose v. Lefevre, 619 F.2d 973 (2nd Cir. 1980): State’s encouragement to witness to believe that favorable testimony would result in leniency toward the witness.

Guerra v. Johnson, 90 F.3d 1075 (5th Cir. 1996): Information showing police intimidation of witness and failure to disclose evidence regarding who was seen carrying the murder weapon shortly after the shooting.

Hudson v. Whitley, 979 F.2d 1058 (5th Cir. 1992): Evidence that the State’s only eyewitness had initially identified someone else, and that person had been arrested.

Hughes v. Bowers, 711 F.Supp. 1574 (N. D. Ga. 1989), aff’d, 896 F.2d 558 (11th Cir. 1990): Evidence that the State’s eyewitness to the murder stood to benefit from the life insurance policy of the victim if the defendant was convicted.

Jacobs v. Singletary, 952 F.2d 1282 (11th Cir. 1992):  Failure to disclose statements of witness to polygraph examiner which contradicted trial testimony.

Jean v. Rice, 945 F.2d 82 (4th Cir. 1991):  State under duty to disclose information concerning hypnosis session that enabled witness to identify the defendant.

Jones v. Jago, 575 F.2d 1164 (6th Cir. 1978):  State withheld, despite defense request, a statement from coindictee who, prior to trial, had been declared material witness for prosecution, and against whom all charges were then dropped.

Lindsey v. King, 769 F.2d 1034 (5th Cir. 1985).  Suppression of initial statement of eyewitness to police in which he said he could not identify the murderer because he never saw the murderer’s face.

McDowell v. Dixon, 858 F.2d 945 (4th Cir. 1988):  Witness’s initial statement that attacker was white when the defendant was black.

Miller v. Angliker, 848 F.2d 1312 (2nd Cir. 1988):  Evidence which showed that another person committed the crimes with which defendant was charged.

Norris v. Slayton, 540 F.2d 1241 (4th Cir. 1976):  Failure to furnish to rape defendant’s counsel copy of lab report showing no hair or fiber evidence in defendant’s undershorts or in victim’s bed.

Orndorff v. Lockhart, 707 F.Supp. 1062 (E.D. Ark. 1988), aff’d in part, vacated in part, 906 F.2d 1230 (8th Cir. 1990): Failure to disclose that witness’s memory was hypnotically refreshed during pretrial investigation.

Ouimette v. Moran, 942 F.2d 1 (1st Cir. 1991): Information about extensive criminal record of State’s witness and the existence of a deal with state’s witness.

Reutter v. Solem, 888 F.2d 578 (8th Cir. 1989): Withholding of fact that key witness had applied for commutation and been scheduled to appear before parole board a few days after his testimony.

Sellers v. Estelle, 651 F.2d 1074 (5th Cir. 1981): Police reports containing admissions by other persons of involvement in the offense.

Spicer v. Roxbury Correctional Institution, 194 F.3d 547 (4th Cir. 1999): Inconsistent statement by government witness as to whether he was really an eyewitness to the crime.

United States v. Beasley, 576 F.2d 626 (5th Cir. 1978): Failure of government to timely produce statement of prosecution witness when the statement at issue differed from witness’ trial testimony.

United States v. Boyd, 55 F.3d 239 (7th Cir. 1995): Prosecutor failed to reveal to defense drug use by prisoner witnesses during trial and “continuous stream of unlawful” favors prosecution gave those witnesses.

United States v. Butler, 567 F.2d 885 (9th Cir. 1978): Government failed to disclose that the witness had been promised a dismissal of the charges against him.

United States v. Cadet, 727 F.2d 1453 (9th Cir. 1984): Names and addresses of eyewitnesses to offense that State does not intend to call to testify.

United States v. Cuffie, 80 F.3d 514 (D.C. Cir. 1996): Evidence that prosecution witness had previously lied under oath in proceeding involving same conspiracy.

United States ex. rel. Smith v. Fairman, 769 F.2d 386 (7th Cir. 1985): Police ballistics report showing gun defendant allegedly used to fire at police was inoperable.

United States v. Foster, 874 F.2d 491 (8th Cir. 1988): Failure by prosecutor to correct false testimony.

United States v. Gerard, 491 F.2d 1300 (9th Cir. 1974): Defendants deprived of evidence of promise of leniency by prosecutor, and failure to disclose that witness was in other trouble, thereby giving him even greater incentive to lie.

United States v. Herberman, 583 F.2d 222 (5th Cir. 1978): Testimony presented to grand jury that contradicted testimony of government witnesses.

United States v. Minsky, 963 F.2d 870 (6th Cir. 1992): Withholding from defense fact that witness lied to Grand Jury.

United States v. Pope, 529 F.2d 112 (9th Cir. 1976): Prosecution failed to disclose plea bargain with witness in exchange for testimony and argued to the jury that the witness had no reason to lie.

United States v. Sheehan, 442 F.Supp. 1003 (D. Mass. 1977): Only eyewitness to see the robber’s faces unmasked during a bank robbery was not called to testify because he hesitated in his identification of the defendant.

United States v. Spagnoulo, 960 F.2d 990 (11th Cir. 1992): Government failed to turn over a psychiatric report which indicated that the defendant may have been able to assert an insanity defense.

United States v. Sutton, 542 F.2d 1239 (4th Cir. 1976): Prosecutor withheld evidence that witness was coerced into testifying against defendant.

United States v. Udechukwu, 11 F.3d 1101 (lst Cir. 1993): Evidence to support defendant’s theory that she had been coerced into being a drug courier.
United States v. Weintraub, 871 F.2d 1257 (5th Cir. 1989): Government withheld statement from a presentence report from witness indicating that the defendant was responsible for much smaller amount of drugs than claimed.

Walter v. Lockhart, 763 F.2d 942 (8th Cir. 1985): For over twenty years, the State withheld a transcript of a conversation supporting the defendant’s claim that the officer shot at him first.

Timing of Disclosure

The ability to effectively utilize exculpatory evidence is largely dependent on the defendant’s obtaining timely disclosure. In United States v. Hart, 760 F.Supp. 653 (E.D. Mich. 1991), the Court held that it was the court’s responsibility to fix the timing for disclosure of exculpatory evidence. Other courts have issued opinions stating that disclosure must be made in time for effective use at trial. United States v. Higgs, 713 F.2d 39, 44 (3rd Cir. 1983); United States v. Starusko, 729 F.2d 256, 261 (3rd Cir. 1984).

Requesting Exculpatory Evidence

The prosecution has a duty to reveal exculpatory evidence even without a specific request from the defense and regardless of the good faith or bad faith of the prosecution. United States v. Agurs, 427 U.S. 97, 96 S.Ct. 2392, 49 L.Ed.2d 342 (1976); Thomas v. State, 841 S.W.2d 399 (Tex. Crim. App. 1992). However, in order to increase the chances of obtaining exculpatory evidence prior to trial defense counsel should file a motion making specific requests for exculpatory evidence. The more specific the request the more likely it is that the prosecution will reveal the existence of the exculpatory evidence. An example of a specific motion for a DWI case follows:

NO. ____________________

THE STATE OF TEXAS § IN THE COUNTY CRIMINAL
V. § COURT NUMBER _________
__________________________________ § _________ COUNTY, TEXAS

MOTION FOR DISCOVERY OF EXCULPATORY EVIDENCE

TO THE HONORABLE JUDGE OF SAID COURT:

NOW COMES the Defendant in the above-styled case and moves for discovery of exculpatory evidence and requests that the State be ordered to provide all exculpatory evidence and, in support thereof, would show the following:

I.

Defendant is charged in this case with the offense of Driving While Intoxicated. Exculpatory evidence in this case includes, but is not limited to, the following:

1. Any evidence that the Defendant was not intoxicated or that could raise a reasonable doubt as to his intoxication.

2. Any evidence that the Defendant had not lost the normal use of his mental faculties.

3. Any evidence that the Defendant had not lost the normal use of his physical faculties.

4. Any evidence that the Defendant did not have an alcohol concentration of 0.08.

5. Any evidence that the Defendant was driving in a safe and prudent manner.

6. Any evidence that the Defendant was able to understand and follow instructions.

7. Any evidence that the Defendant performed satisfactorily on field sobriety tests.

8. Any evidence that the Defendant was able to adequately perform physical tasks.

9. Any statements by any witnesses that Defendant did not appear intoxicated or raising a doubt as to whether the Defendant appeared intoxicated.

10. Any evidence that the Defendant had not drunk excessive alcohol at or near the time of her arrest.
11. Any evidence that the Defendant had not taken any drugs or controlled substances at or near the time of her arrest.

12. Any indication that the police were unable to find physical evidence indicating or supporting intoxication.

13. Any evidence of defects or problems with the intoxilyzer machine.

14. Any evidence of prior false reports or disciplinary problems with the police officers involved.

15. Any evidence of a quota system by the police regarding Driving While Intoxicated arrests.

16. Any evidence of bias or motive by the police in arresting the Defendant for Driving While Intoxicated.

17. Any evidence that could be used to impeach the State's witnesses.

18. Any other evidence that is in any way exculpatory to the Defendant.

II.

III.

Defendant requests that the prosecuting attorney be ordered to review his file for this evidence and to instruct all State agents, including police officers, to review their records and make a diligent effort to locate exculpatory evidence. Defendant also requests that she receive the information sufficiently prior to trial to be able to prepare to use it in the trial.

WHEREFORE, PREMISES CONSIDERED, Defendant respectfully prays that this Motion be granted and the prosecutor be instructed to look for and disclose to the Defendant exculpatory evidence, as defined in this Motion.
Respectfully submitted,
